

Retraining Bonus Requirements

- Is assigned to the unit program in a non-bonus AFSC, reenlisting within the same wing or group (locale), which successfully completes the three-level retraining, and is awarded the three-level bonus CAFSC.
- Is retraining into a bonus Duty Air Force Specialty Code (DAFSC) in effect on the date retraining is approved, that is, date entered Training Status Code (TSC) M, E.
- Has not previously received an Individual Ready Reserve (IRR), reenlistment, or retraining bonus for service in any Reserve component.
- Is not retraining to qualify for a civilian position where membership in the Reserve is a condition of employment.
- Has less than 14 years total service (based on pay date) at the time of enlistment.
- Is a satisfactory participant in the Air Force Reserve and has performed three authorized four-period UTAs at the time of reenlistment.
- Is not applying for retraining concurrent with assignment to the Air Force Reserve, that is, coming from nonparticipating reserve status (ARPC), active duty, other units, or IMA program.
- Is not requesting reenlistment more than 36 months before current ETS. This does not include any extensions for retainability in retraining. The member cannot request reenlistment more than 30 days before current ETS if currently receiving an enlistment or affiliation bonus.

NOTE: Follow normal retraining approval requirements according to AFMAN 36-8001, Reserve Personnel Participation and Training Procedures. Service retainability, if required, is obtained through extension of current reenlistment. If the member requires more than 23 months of extension, reenlistment for a term of 2 years is authorized and the remaining retainability is by extension.
