ORI EDITION GOING TO WAR

ORI team arrives, inspection begins

The 12th Air Force IG team arrived at Tinker AFB Monday morning to begin the Operational Readiness Inspection of the 507th Tactical Fighter Group.

The team will be inspecting all phases of the unit's wartime tasking. This includes mobility, deployment, employment, ability to survive and combat support functions.

The 12th AF Inspector General Col. Richard K. Johnson told those attending the inbriefing to be careful of the heat and humidity. "Watch your people and take care of them," he added. "Don't let the swell of sortie generation get to you."

"Treat it (the exercise) like it's real. Treat it like it is ALL real," said Colonel Rogge.

Colonel Johnson mentioned that we will need to find out what the unit is being attacked by, where it's coming from and by whom.

Team Chief Col. Henry M. Rogge added, "We are here essentially to give you an award." He stressed that the team is here to help the unit not to hinder it.

"Your biggest problem will probably be communications. We hope you can solve the problem because everyone (other units) has the same difficulties," he said.

Re-emphasizing Colonel Johnson's remarks on the heat and humidity, the team chief said, "if you run your people until you need to call the medics, you've screwed up."

Exercise

Monday, the situation between the Warsaw Pact and NATO has rapidly deteriorated as both sides continue to mobilize.

In Turkey, the water supplies have been contaminated and U.S. military personnel have been assassinated at key military locations.

We can expect the Warsaw Pact to continue to use the further guise of exercise to mobilize its forces and strike at major military points along NATO's political borders.
