WHAT IS A LITTLE KNOWN FACT ABOUT YOU?
Although I am Christian, I enjoy interacting with people of all faiths, including Native Americans. Also, I enjoy watching animated movies, and watching airplanes fly.

WHAT IS YOUR FAVORITE CHARACTER IN A MOVIE?
A character I found to be interesting is Emma Harte from “A Woman of Substance.” She not only has an amazing resilience but also figures out a way to survive and excel.

AS A KID, WHAT WAS YOUR DREAM JOB?
I thought I would be an Architect or be recognized as an inventor.

WHAT IS YOUR CAREER GOAL?
My career goal is to cross the blue as an officer/Chaplain and continue to serve in the U.S. Air Force until it is time to retire.

WHAT DO YOU DO FOR FUN?
Going to the movies, reading, writing, rollerblading, riding motorcycles, singing in choirs when possible, and doing charitable work.

MEMORANDUM FOR ALL AIRMEN

SUBJECT: Air Force Directive Publication Reduction

The Air Force has too many directive publications. They are often outdated and inconsistent, breeding cynicism when Airmen feel they cannot possibly follow every written rule. They are sometimes too rigid, slowing adaptation and discouraging new ideas. The result is distraction and inefficiency - when we specify the trivial, we lose focus on the important.

Over the next 24 months, we will systematically review, reduce, and clarify all Air Force directive publications. The men and women of the United States Air Force command history’s most lethal force. Therefore, we trust you can make the right decisions based on your values, your training, the mission, and your experience. Where possible, instructions will allow commanders to exercise good judgment and waive requirements at the lowest appropriate level. The focus will be identifying best practices and concentrating on values, mission, and results.

At the end of this effort, there will be fewer publications and those that remain will be shorter. All publications will be current; approvals and authorities will reside at the lowest appropriate level; and all publications will be written clearly and concisely, without jargon or acronyms. Additionally, instructions rescinded or made optional by Headquarters Air Force will not be replaced by comparable instructions at lower levels of command. The intent is to be less directive, not to decentralized direction.

The Office of the Deputy Undersecretary of the Air Force for Management (SAF/MG) is the lead for this effort. Within the next year, their cross functional team will review and revise, or else rescind the most problematic instructions. Before September 2019, the team will review the remaining directive publications. To address the root cause of the current situation, we will also develop and implement an agile process that changes how publications are created, maintained, and disseminated.

Reviewing and revising publications is not your job, but no one knows how instructions impact the mission better than you. Your opportunity to be part of this institutional shift will come within the next several weeks when we circulate an Air Force wide survey. We encourage you to take part. We also encourage you to visit the Airmen Powered by Innovation portal. There, you can provide input on which publications should be prioritized for review.

We are honored to serve with you and respect your time and dedication. Thank you for helping us drive a culture of innovation and focusing on mission success – today and tomorrow.

“W.e’ve lost 68 total force Airmen (active, Guard, Reserve and civilians) this year. That’s a rate of two each week.

I need your help. We MUST solve this. People don’t end their lives because they think things will get worse; oftentimes, it’s because they think it won’t get better.

Family day is here, but next month: ATSO’s back.

I know what you’re thinking...It’s family day, yay! We get to bring out our families and show them where we work and enjoy some games and frivolity. Family is so important. They deserve to be included, when we can, in what we do and family day is the perfect opportunity. We get to give them a glimpse of how and why we are so important to the defense of this nation and tout our mission to organize, train and equip combat-ready Citizen Airmen to provide strategic deterrence and global capabilities. The wing can’t do it without its most important resource, you, the Citizen Airman, and you can’t do it without the support of your family.

Why are the men and women of the 507th so valuable to America? The nuclear threat from North Korea continues to garner news coverage, and our ability to survive and operate (ATSO) in chemical or biological contaminated environment has become increasingly more important. Our ability to effectively exercise in a chemical, biological, radiological or nuclear (CBRN) environment, proving our prowess and strengthening those skills are telltale signs to the world that we are 100 percent mission ready and any attempt to attack would be futile.

Let me tell your family now, “What the men and women of the 507th do matters and contributes greatly to America’s defense”. We’ll be having an ATSO exercise in October requiring us to get into MOPP (mission oriented protective posture). What should you expect? We will practice using our gear, donning and doffing (doffing means to remove an item of clothing...I only say this because when I first heard it, I didn’t know what it meant) and we’ll have various alarms to respond to. We’ve carved out time for you to demonstrate your ability to work while in MOPP Level 4. (Hint: Make sure you document the training.) We’re setting up zone transition points and a contamination control area (CCA). Air and ground crew will get to get familiarized with aircrew eye and respiratory Protection (AERP) equipment. Like family day, there’s fun to be had by all.

Okay, being in MOPP gear isn’t exciting or glamorous, but it’s a critical skill that we hope we never have to use. Have you heard the expression, “An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure?” In strengthening our ATSO muscles, we again demonstrate that America is combat ready and in doing so, deterring enemy actions. Thank you to the men and women of the 507th and to your families for their support. Enjoy family day and may God continue to bless the 507th.
